

Sara Johnston, Ph.D., CRC

Associate Professor in the Occupational Therapy Doctorate Program, and the Olson Fellow for Global Engaged Learning
Drake University
Des Moines, Iowa

My CRC credential is the foundation of my professional identity as a rehabilitation counselor. My CRC demonstrates that I possess the knowledge, skills, and awareness to work with and on behalf of individuals with disabilities and their families. My experience in inter-professional practice and global health requires me to work as a member of an inter-professional healthcare team. Unlike licensure, which is a state credential, the CRC is a national credential, recognized in all 50 states. My CRC credential provides evidence to my team members that I have obtained the highest national credential in rehabilitation counseling -- my counseling specialty. Similar to the national certifications earned by other healthcare professionals, my CRC demonstrates my commitment to ethical practice and ongoing continuing education in my specialty.